

Challenger Jim Brown, 50, enters the race with fourteen years experience in local manufacturing and a deep desire to serve his community using his business skills. He is active in his church as an usher and a member of the Missions Committee. He is also a volunteer at Aspirus Hospital. Brown is married and has one adult son.

"I wish to use my experience in manufacturing management and specifically "lean processes" to increase efficiency in government. It is also my hope that I will be able to help build an environment that continues to create more good paying jobs and subsequently a better Weston," said Brown.
